Contents:
200 mini poker chips
12 Poker Keeno cards
1 deck of playing cards

Set-up:
1. Each player is given a board and 20 chips.
2. Select one player to be the dealer.

Bingo Style Play:
The dealer shuffles the cards and flips over the top card, calling it out. For example, if the dealer flips over the Jack of Clubs, each player who has a Jack of Clubs on his card covers it with a chip.

The dealer continues turning over cards while the players continue to cover their boards. The game is over when a player calls out “Poker Keeno”, this means he has a complete row of five covered, either horizontally or vertically. The winner becomes the next dealer.

Poker Style Play:
Play continues until every player has one row completely covered either horizontally or vertically. Whichever player has the highest poker hand wins.

Rank of Poker Hands: (highest to lowest)
1. Royal Flush: 5 cards of the same suit in sequence from 10-Ace (10, J, Q, K, A).
2. Straight Flush: 5 cards of the same suit in sequence except for 10-Ace which in turn is a Royal Flush.
3. Four of a Kind: 4 cards of the same denomination.
4. Full House: 3 cards of one denomination and 2 cards of another.
5. Flush: 5 cards of the same suit in any sequence.
6. Three of a Kind: 3 cards of the same denomination.
7. Two Pairs: 2 cards of one denomination and 2 of another.
8. One Pair: 2 cards of the same denomination
9. Highest Card: Whoever has the highest card wins.

Blackjack Style Play:
The dealer covers his own board and keeps turning over cards until he has five in a row. The other players who have not five in a row covered by this time, or their row has a lesser poker value than the dealer, loses. The player with highest poker hand wins!

Roulette Style Play:
Everyone except the dealer is given a board and 10 chips. Each player chooses two rows on his card (can be horizontally or vertically). The dealer starts turning over playing cards and the players start covering up ONLY the two rows that they have chosen. If one of these two rows is not covered up by any player after twenty five cards have been turned over, the dealer gets all the chips. If a player's row has been covered, he wins all the chips. If more than one player has a row covered, then they split the chips evenly.
